Apologies

The Editorial team must apologise for the late appearance of this issue. The reason for the delay was that almost as soon as we had things ready for printing, something else happened. The Race Riots in East London, the BNP victory and the SWP Riot in South London all happened in a very short space of time, leaving our limited resources very stretched. Sorry!

You will also notice that we have not included regular features such as League News and Overseas News, this is because the space has been given over to a special souvenir supplement to celebrate the Historic Electoral Victory of the BNP in East London. We hope to be back to normal for issue 23.

Justice ?

Following the cowardly attack by SWP/ANL supporters in Brick Lane market recently, another incident is alleged to have happened later, in which an ANL supporter received wounds to his face. Four Nationalists were arrested, including the BNP's Richard Edmonds. Now whilst the law of "sub-judice" restricts discussion on this case, I have one important question.

Richard Edmonds has been charged with "violent disorder", which is precisely the charge that Searchlight editor Gerry Gable was charged with sometime ago. Gable was given bail,

WHY WASN'T RICHARD ??

Screwdriver Deaths.

It was with great sorrow that we heard of the tragic deaths of the Screwdriver lead singer Ian Stuart, and another member of the band.

Ian and the band, brought thousands of young men and women into the Nationalist movement through their music.

Ian was an uncompromising and brave Warrior in the battle for our Racial Survival, and will be sadly missed.

For Ian the struggle is over, but for those of us left behind the battle for our Race and Nation must continue until either we have victory, or we are carried from the battle field on our shields.

Victory or Valhalla!

Race Riots.

The recent race riots in London's East End, was the subject of some of the most biased reporting by the media that I have ever seen. Several papers claimed that on Saturday night, "around 50 White BNP members ran through Brick Lane smashing windows."

They didn't explain how they knew the offenders were BNP members (I feel sure they weren't wearing badges, or waving membership cards,) and didn't bother to investigate further.

Yet the local paper, quoting eye witnesses, described the gang who carried out the attacks as comprising of several White and Asian youths! no doubt the ANL boys were busy that night.

Congratulations.

Like most Nationalists, I was absolutely delighted with the victory of Derek Beackon in East London.

The BNP election victory on the Isle of Dogs brought much needed and much deserved publicity to the Nationalist cause.

It has also proved that Nationalism can obtain power through the ballot box, if the right areas are selected, if the candidates are sensible, presentable and if possible, local people, and if an incredible amount of hard work is put into the campaign.

Hopefully, this is just the first of many Victories to come.

What was also highlighted during the electoral campaign was the need for new legislation restricting political campaigning to those organisations that are actually fielding a candidate. Organisations such as the SWP and their puppets in the ANL are consistent parasites in the electoral system, frequently campaigning against candidates, but never challenging them directly by putting up candidates of their own.

Race Riots hit London

Citizens of Britain's Capital City, faced three nights of Rioting when various left-wing groups cleverly manipulated and incited Asian thugs, to start a Race Riot, using the attack on an Asian youth, allegedly by Whites as an excuse.

As the victim of the alleged racial attack, 17 year old Quaddas Ali, was recovering in Bethnal Green's London Hospital, agitators from the SWP and their puppets from the "Anti-Nazi League", organised a protest outside of the hospital. As the Police moved in to clear a path so as visitors to the hospital could gain entry, they were attacked.

Several Police officers were injured, including the local Police Inspector, and a WPC received facial injuries requiring nine stitches, which will leave her scarred for life.

For the rest of the night, gangs of mainly Asian youths roamed the area attacking Whites, and smashing their property. An eye witness saw an elderly White man, who was peacefully drinking outside the nearby Grave Maurice public house, clubbed to the ground by an Asian mob. It is not known if this is being regarded as a "racial attack."

The demonstrators were eventually disbursed by Riot Police using dogs.

The incident has been officially recognised by the Home Office as a "Riot".

Despite appeals for calm issued by Quaddas Ali's mother, the attacks on Whites continued. As tension mounted in the area, and fears grew of a possible White backlash, more Police were drafted in, and these became a target for rioters throwing petrol bombs.

A gang of White and Asian youths, all believed to be activists from either the Anti-Nazi League, or the Militant controlled YRE, launched an attack on Asian owned property in the Brick Lane area, and almost successfully managed to blame BNP supporters.

Two petrol bombs were also thrown at a police Station especially established in Brick Lane at the request of the Asian Community, but only slight damage was caused.

A 100 strong gang of Asians then gathered on the nearby Chicksands Estate, and had to be dispersed by Riot Police. Ten men, a woman, and two juveniles were arrested.

With the news of the BNP's electoral victory on the Isle of Dogs, just two miles away, the agitators decided to try and incite racial violence there.

Unfortunately for them, the "Islanders" were not afraid to express their support for the BNP, and their disgust at the race-mixers, sometimes quite violently, so the Reds returned to the more fertile ground around Brick Lane.

The Police must be congratulated for their initial quick response to the first incidents, but it is noted that despite Commissioner Paul Condon's warnings against racial violence, most of the rioters arrested were only charged with either offences relating to property damage, or minor public order offences. Leaving us to wonder if the rioters had been White Nationalists, would they have been treated so leniently?

'We all wanted to torch BNP'

Nineteen Police Officers, including two Women Officers, were injured when members of the Anti-Nazi League rioted and attacked the Police during an anti_Racist march through South London recently.

The march, organised to protest over a bookshop operated by the BNP, was sponsored by Searchlight magazine, but consisted mainly of members from the Socialist Workers Party puppet organisation, the Anti-Nazi League, and Militant's "Youth Against Racism" (YAR), although several known criminals from the Anarchist "Class War" and the Trotskyist "Red Action" were also in attendance.

The Riot began following a speech by Searchlight's pet "holocaust survivor", Leon Greenman.

Rioters carrying banners promising to "Smash the BNP" tried to force their way through Police lines to attack the BNP bookshop.

As the rioters were forced back by the Police, several members of Red Action were seen putting on masks and balaclavas before pelting the Police with bricks and bottles. Fortunately the Police had seized several petrol bombs before the march, otherwise Police casualties would have been far higher.

A black Police Officer was singled out for attack by the "anti-racists" who called him a "Race Traitor", and was hospitalised, and another Officer received spinal injuries which may leave him paralysed for life.

One of the sickening tactics employed by the ANL supporters was to convert their "lollipop" banners into spears, which were then used to poke at the eyes of the Police Officers and their horses.

A total of 31 "anti-Fascists" were arrested.

Black television celebrity Lenny Henry, was so disgusted with the ANL tactics, that he immediately resigned from their organisation.

SEARCHLIGHT SPONSORS VIOLENCE

One question on everybody's lips is just what was Searchlight's part in all of this ??

The event was widely publicised by Searchlight, and their name even appeared on the list of sponsors, but when Comrades from a Nationalist group who specialise in documenting Red activities offered their assistance in identifying the Reds to the Police, their offer was declined. A Police source revealed that they were getting assistance from none other than SEARCHLIGHT ! Very Strange !!

The catalogue of violence amassed by the SWP/ANL/Red Action coalition is appalling. The "Poll-Tax" Riots in Trafalgar Square, the more recent riots outside the London Hospital, and the violence in Brick Lane have ALL been instigated by these groups.

League Sentinel has written to both the Home Secretary, and the Police Commissioner demanding that these criminal gangs be banned, and we urge all readers to do the same. There is no place in politics for these "men of violence".

SECRET SERVICE SPY WAS RESPONSIBLE FOR "RED ACTION" ARRESTS

It can now be revealed that it was an Irish born spy, operated by Britain's MI5 that was responsible for the arrest of several members of Red Action in London, over suspected links with the Provisional IRA and their terrorist colleagues INLA.

The spy, was highly placed within Belfast Republican circles, and was able to identify and name, several people of English birth, who were assisting the IRA in Britain.

The Police have for a long time suspected that the recent bombing campaigns in England have been successful because of the assistance provided by English supporters. Such persons tend to arouse no suspicion in their daily movements, and are invaluable in obtaining the vital intelligence that terrorists need before planting their bombs. Would be English terrorists have also tried to prove their loyalty by actually planting bombs provided by the Republicans.

Much of the spy's information has yet to be acted upon, but League Sentinel has learnt that one Red Action member from the West Country has been arrested, as well as an undisclosed number in both London and the North.

The spy also confirmed Red Action's strong links between both the Irish Republican Socialist Party, and their para-military wing, the Irish National Liberation Army.

 Since this article was written Police sources have told League Sentinel that of several people recently arrested on terrorist charges relating to a spate of bombings in North London, two have strong connections with Red Action.

WHITES FIGHT BACK.

Six White women, led by a local tenants association leader, have mounted a legal challenge against the "race equality policy" of the East London Borough of Newham.

The women accused the Labour run council of breaking the Race Relations Act, by ejecting them from a Town Hall meeting held in October 1991 to discuss race equality policy.

The women are seeking compensation from the Labour council for "hurt feelings and misrepresentation"

The case is likely to be heard in the High Court in February 1994.

HISTORIC VICTORY FOR BNP

The British National Party achieved an incredible breakthrough, when they gained their first ever council seat in the Isle of Dogs area of East London.

The BNP candidate, Derek Beackon, standing in the Millwall ward, of the Isle of Dogs, beat the Labour candidate into second place by just seven votes. The Liberal candidate came third, some 196 votes behind, and the Conservative, a staggering, One Thousand, Three Hundred votes behind the BNP.

The media, and the establishment parties, both erupted in a hail of fury, when the announcement was made.

Spokesmen from all of the major parties, condemned the victory, ignoring the fact that democracy is the will of the people, and the people of the Isle of Dogs finally realised that only the BNP were committed to putting Whites First!

In the 48 hours that followed, every major politician, as well as a few minor ones, were interviewed and asked to give their opinion as to why the BNP had won.

Needless to say, all blamed either each others parties for "dirty tricks", and one or two even claimed "apathy" amongst voters as the cause. This, despite a 44% turnout!

Former student agitator Jack Straw became the spokesman for Labour, despite the fact he neither lives, nor went to University in the area!

Paddy Ashdown, blamed Labour for the defeat, and said he would look into the result carefully, he also promised an investigation into allegations of "Racist tactics" used by members of his own party.

'I think this vote's a warning'

BY ALEA HENDRY

A MAN whose election victory sparked fears of a race war was jubilant last night.

'Asian groups have no future here'

Threat of walkout if BNP winner turns up

Staff won't work with race hate party leader

All this, as he sat comfortably in his picturesque West Country cottage, where Bengali refugees have yet to settle. John Major, said he "was disappointed", but this was only to be expected from the leader of a party whose candidate had polled a miserly 134 votes! Even the Archbishop of Canterbury, not a familiar face on the Island, condemned the BNP victory, as he sat in Lambeth Palace.

The media, already in shock, dragged out every Black and Asian reporter that they could find, and sent them in droves on to the Island.

Despite the secrecy involved in the ballot, the reporters asked locals for whom had they voted. The tactic of a young Black reporter asking a Middle-aged Islander if they supported the BNP was calculated to embarrass, and solicit denials. However, the shock on their faces was a joy to behold, when time after time, Whites admitted voting BNP, as they "were fed up with Asians getting preference in everything".

Perhaps the most amusing interview was with three elderly White ladies who told the astonished reporter, "we must all be Nazi's I suppose, because we ALL voted for the BNP".

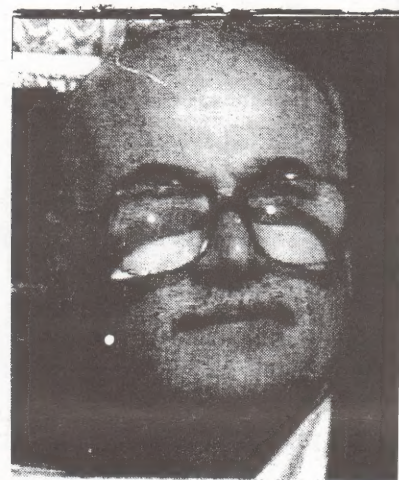

The media then sought solace in the "experts".

Political analysts dismissed the victory as a "protest vote" or a "flash in the pan", but the multi-racialists blood must have run cold when the esteemed Professor Chris Husbands, of the London School of Economics, told the Nation that "the BNP could win even more seats in the next local elections in May".

Even the media's old favourite "phone in poll" seemed to backfire on them.

The first, by the Zionist owned Carlton Television, saw 53% of some 20,000 voters back the BNP.

The second, carried out by the local newspaper, the East London Advertiser, revealed that 886 people, or 18% had voted against the BNP, whilst 3,963 or 81% had voted FOR them.

Councillor Derek Beackon. B.N.P.

The extreme left reacted with their normal violence, attacking BNP supporters when ever they could find them outnumbered, with much of the violence being directed by the Socialist Workers Party and their puppets, the Anti-Nazi League.

The Police also reacted predictably, treating the Reds and their Asian cannon-fodder with kid-gloves and Police "cautions", whilst attempting to arrest any innocent Nationalist that was available.

Throughout all this pressure, the BNP candidate Derek Beackon behaved admirably.

Freely admitting that he was surprised to win, Derek immediately took on the case of a local woman who was being threatened with eviction by the council, who it was suspected wanted her 3 bedroom home, to give to a more "deserving" Asian family.

Since the election, the BNP have received more than seven hundred enquiries, and have announced that they will be fielding at least 3 more candidates on the Isle of Dogs in May!

Congratulations Derek, and thank you!

Mud flies after BNP election win

Most of the media followed the dictates of their anti-Nationalist owners, and the directive from the National Union of Journalists, and reported the BNP victory only in the negative, completely ignoring the democratic principle of "the will of the people". The News of the World did expose the fact that Tower Hamlets council did give preference in housing to immigrants, but the rest of the media was content to use innuendo's and smear tactics to belittle the BNP victory.

Amongst the smear stories was one from Black ex boxer Gary Mason, who advised immigrants to leave the Country for their own safety, and another using photographs allegedly showing Derek Beackon giving a "Nazi-style salute". However as we have shown here, the camera can and often does lie.!

SIEG HEIL

This photograph and caption appeared in several newspapers in a clear attempt to smear Derek Beackon. But now look below, and decide just what the Labour leader John Smith, and the Tory Prime Minister John Major are up to !

Andrew Gimson finds BNP sympathies and a sense of shame and suffering on The Island

'Asian groups have no future here'

A MAN whose election victory sparked fears of a race war was jubilant last night.

Things have certainly been hectic since Derek Beackon became the first ever BNP councillor. He has had the press constantly camping on his doorstep, and he narrowly avoided an attack by members of the Anti-Nazi League, who had hoped to ambush him when they attacked BNP papersellers at Brick lane. However, following a few days rest to get over the "shock of Victory", Derek immediately took up his first case, of a White couple who were being evicted from their home.

The couple, Mr and Mrs Johnson asked Derek to take up their case just days before they were due to be evicted, on the grounds that the house was needed to house someone with a large family.

This was suspected to be Asians.

Derek helped to turn Council officers and bailiffs away from the couples house, and insisted that "Mrs Johnson's family has lived on the Isle of Dogs for a 150 years, and should not be evicted to accommodate immigrants". The local authority have now postponed the eviction indefinitely, a fact confirmed at the local Bow County Court.

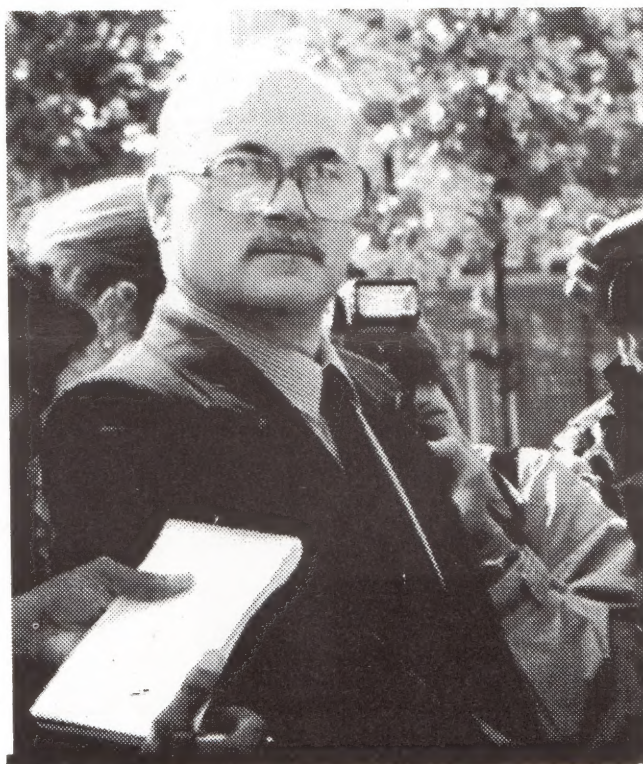

A spokesman for the Council denied that Derek Beackon's support for the family had influenced the decision to postpone the eviction.

Following this Victory, Derek then attended his first council meeting, where he witnessed the Liberal run council award an extra Ten Thousand pounds of taxpayers money, to the Boroughs "Race Equality Council".

This decision is now likely to be referred by Derek to the Local Government ombudsman for investigation. Some 25 ANAL demonstrators turned up, but no arrests were made.

Councillor Beackon will have a difficult time during his first term as a Councillor, but we at League Sentinel feel confident that he will do his best. He has already shown the courage and conviction associated with members of Our Island Race, and will not be intimidated.

He is the First, but he will not be the Last. We're on our way to Victory, and we're taking our Country Back!

NOT GUILTY!

European Nationalists have denied allegations, that they were responsible for the damage and desecration of over 200 war graves belonging to British and Allied troops killed at the Battle of Arnhem.

The attack, which took place in August, left over 200 graves daubed with what the media claimed to be "Neo-Nazi" and "Racist" slogans.

The spelling of the slogans such as "Sig Heil" and "Nikkers Raus", has led to the belief that they were the work of Dutch and German Communists, who had hoped that the public revulsion would force the abandonment of the Hess Memorial March due to take place just a few days after the incident.

The cemetery of Jonkerbosch, lies just outside Nijmegen, and quite close to the German border. It is the focal point of an annual event, in which teams of marchers from all over Europe try to complete a gruelling three day forced march against the clock, to commemorate the Allied role in the Battle of Arnhem.

The desecration naturally attracted the attention of the mass media, who as expected, failed to report, that within hours of the attack being known, a combined team of Dutch and Flemish Nationalists formed a working party to clean up the graves.

A spokesman from the group told League Sentinel, "this is not the work of Nationalists. Neither Dutch, Germans or Flemings would ever harm war graves. This is the last resting place of brave men. We salute their courage, and would not dream of defiling them".

At the Nationalist gathering in Dixmuide, some two weeks later, German Comrades indignantly denied that they were responsible, saying "this is undoubtedly the work of the Reds, it is their tactic. We would find no political gain in such an atrocity. Remember, both the Reds and some radical Jews have already been caught doing such things. Even in Israel a Militant was caught defiling Jewish graves, hoping to put the blame on Palestinians".

A 12 man team of Dutch Police have investigated the attack, but no arrests have yet been made.

The League of St George, would like to thank those Nationalist Comrades that took the trouble to clean up the British War Graves. Comradeship, Honour and Loyalty is still strong amongst us.

CABLE STREET

THE 'VICTORY' THAT NEVER WAS....

The recent violence in London's East End, has given the ideal opportunity for the media to compare this with events that took place almost 60 years ago, in almost the same area, and has come to be known as "The Battle of Cable Street"

The violence recently directed against Nationalists in the Brick Lane area, and the events of the 4th of October 1936 do have one thing in common, in both cases, the violence was a result of Communist agitators attacking Nationalists, in an attempt to deny them their democratic rights.

In fact, the "Battle of Cable Street", really never directly involved Sir Oswald Mosley's "Blackshirts", but was fought between the Police, and the Communists who had erected barricades in an attempt to stop a planned march by the Blackshirts to celebrate the fourth anniversary of the founding of the movement.

The March was in reality, planned as a series of marches, starting from various points in London, and intended to go through areas of East London where support was strongest for their policies. With the London County Council elections due to be held the following March, this would then be an ideal opportunity to begin the election campaign, and it was decided that the marches would culminate in four street meetings at which Sir Oswald would speak.

The march, and it's route, were public knowledge, and for several weeks Communist agitators had planned to oppose the march, by bringing in thousands of demonstrators from all over the country.

Myth "East Londoners in their thousands rose up against Fascism"

Fact most of the Reds arrested were from other parts of the country, even up as far as Newcastle!

On the day of the march, the Reds began to erect barricades in Cable street, which was about a half a mile from the proposed start of one of the marches, and when the Police moved in to dismantle them, the Reds attacked the Police.

The Metropolitan Police Commissioner, Sir Phillip Game, alarmed at the violence being inflicted on his policemen, instructed Mosley that the march route and direction must be changed, and Mosley, always a law abiding man, promptly arranged for the marchers to go westward instead of eastwards, and the march proceeded along the Embankment.

1930's Stallholders in East Londons Brick Lane Market show their support for Mosley.

The marchers then assembled for inspection by the leader, and after the march was dismissed, hundreds made their way to the Headquarters in Gt Smith Street, where Sir Oswald addressed them from an upstairs window saying, "We never surrender. We shall triumph over the old parties of corruption because our Faith is greater than their Faith, and our Will is stronger than their Will, and within us is the Flame that shall light this country and shall later light this world".

Truth about the Blackshirt March

Fact Dozens of East London Blackshirts cut off by the fighting, organised their own march to Bethnal Green's Victoria Park Square, and held their own rally which was attended by a large crowd. The former President of the League of St George, Fred Shepherd, then a Blackshirt Cadet, was amongst the speakers.

Myth The Battle of Cable Street was the turning point for Fascism, and marked the fall of the Movement and loss of all support.

Fact On the very evening after the march, the Limehouse, East London, Branch signed up 600 new members!

Fact Two weeks later, thousands of East Londoners flocked to street meetings, in venues such as Victoria Park, and no opponents were to be seen!

Fact Six months later, in March 1937, the Blackshirts polled 20% of the vote in the area of East London where the violence had been greatest!

Fact Three years after the march, Mosley addressed 30,000 Blackshirts at Earls Court Exhibition Hall!

Even the photographs that the media often show of Cable Street, depicting Blackshirts under attack, do not reflect the fact that the Reds would only attack if they outnumbered the Blackshirts by more than five to one.

Fact When hundreds of Reds attacked a small group of Blackshirts assembling at Royal Mint street, the ex cruiserweight Boxing champion of the Royal Navy, Tommy Moran, knocked down over a dozen Reds before being hit from behind with a chair leg wrapped in barbed wire. Tommy's head was bandaged, and he quickly re-entered the fray.

As the Red violence in October 1936 failed to stop the advance of Nationalism then, I feel sure that the recent "Battle of Brick Lane" will not halt the advance of Nationalism today. Destiny cannot be thwarted.

Even the words spoken by Sir Oswald Mosley that day, are as inspiring, and true, as they were fifty-seven years ago... "We never surrender. We shall triumph over the old parties of corruption because our Faith is greater than their Faith, and our Will is stronger than their Will, and within us is the Flame that shall light this country and shall later light this world".

Tommy Moran. Blackshirt, and former Cruiserweight Boxing champion of the Royal Navy. "bloodied but unbowed".

LEAGUE OF ST GEORGE.

VIEWPOINT

DANGEROUS PRECEDENTS

The recent decision taken at the Annual Conference of Britain's Liberal Democrats to dismiss those employed by local authorities, and to evict from their council owned homes, all people judged to be "Racist" sets a very dangerous precedent. It opens the doors for any future Nationalist controlled local authority to treat similarly all those that advocate "multi-racialism" including immigrants and of course Liberal Democrats!

DANGEROUS PRECEDENTS 2.

The cowardly attack on Nationalist papersellers, by those hiding behind the banners of the Anti-Nazi League, could set a dangerous precedent.

Whilst there has always been some verbal abuse between papersellers of different persuasion, and even the occasional scuffle, rarely has this resulted in serious violence. We have all heard tales of red papersellers who have been cornered, and even threatened with violence, but then allowed to go home safely to change their underclothes. But this latest incident could put the safety of all SWP/ANL papersellers in serious jeopardy.

The television report on the incident, also showed a clear picture of a SWP/ANL female kicking a Nationalist who was unconscious on the ground.

This I suspect, could now remove the natural protection that Nationalists have traditionally given to females, even if they are political opponents.

It is a sad day.

* * * * *

Tottenham MP Bernie Grant made headlines recently by suggesting that Immigrants should be financially encouraged to return to their countries of origin. What a pity he didn't suggest that to illegal immigrant Joy Gardner whose death whilst resisting arrest and deportation has led to the suspension of several Police Officers who would be of more value in Policing our streets instead of sitting at home on full pay!

They do say that Politics is "a funny old game", but am I the only one to find it strange that the Socialist Workers Party, through it's puppet organisation, the "Anti-Nazi League" first demonstrates outside the London Hospital demanding that the Police "do something about Racial Attacks", and when the Police swamp the area with extra Policemen, the SWP then incites their Black and Brown members to attack them!

* * * * *

Incidents of violence or harassment banded loosely together under the heading of "Racial attacks" are on the increase in Britain, we are told.

Some members of the Nationalist fraternity support this tactic, using the argument that similar attacks in Germany have forced the Government to tighten up the rules against asylum seekers.

Whilst this is undoubtedly true, we believe that the electoral victory recently gained by the BNP's Derek Beackon has gained more publicity, caused more worry to the established parties, and in the long term will be more beneficial to our cause, than punching the local Asian newsagent.

* * * * *

Following a "World in Action" television programme that accused two Londoners of being associated with alleged "terror groups", and a "special edition" of Searchliar which repeated the allegations, one of the men mentioned, former NF candidate Eddie Whicker, was arrested on charges relating to firearms. After a few weeks of investigation, the Police decided to release Mr Whicker, admitting that they had no evidence.

Now how much instigation there was by Searchliar and it's editor Gerry Gable, to have Eddie arrested in the first place is not clear, but if rumours are true, and the Ulster Loyalists are not happy with Searchliar's part in the harassment of someone whose only "crime" has been to publicly support the Loyalist cause, then things could get distinctly uncomfortable for the Searchliar team.
